

SECESSION OF PANAMA

From Colombia is Precisely Like That of the Confederate States in This Country in 1861--
How Different the Conduct of Roosevelt From That of President Lincoln.

Washington, Nov. 17.—The talk is that a new canal treaty with the sovereign state of Panama will give to the Americans twice the land abutting on the canal route that was secured by the treaty with Colombia and rejected by that republic. This appears to be an appeal to American cupidity and greed. It would not be surprising to wake up some morning and find that the whole Panama isthmus country, the most valuable possession of Colombia, had been annexed over night, and was occupied by ten or twenty thousand soldiers now held in readiness for a descent on the South American republic. President Roosevelt wants to do things regardless of international law, common honesty and American precedents, and it appears will have the support of his party in Congress, from which almost anything can be expected after the Philippine experience. This is another step in the imperial policy. "Might makes right"—steal from the weak, but be careful how you run counter to the Confederacy after it. Sumner than there was in installing the revolt of a few score adventurers on the isthmus as the creation of an independent power. The French stock operator and speculator was received by President Roosevelt with a great show of spectacular ceremony on Friday, and the new republic duly recognized by the United States as one of the powers of the earth. He declares the Panama raid represented the "unopposed will of the people of Panama," but what of Colombia, which was the parent state? It had proposed an expedition to suppress the revolt such as General Scott started to Charleston in 1861 under Major Anderson, but our President of this day took sides with the secessionists in Panama and ordered our naval forces to resist the landing of any force sent out by the republic of Colombia in the execution of its constitutional duty to maintain the unity of the South American republic. Does not this strike thinking Amer-

to the interests of Germany and Great Britain, or purchase their approval.

The latest news from South America, all doctored at Washington, makes it probable that Colombia will be joined by the other South American republics in vigorous protests against the Panama raid and recognition.

There is hardly a question the secession of Panama was concocted in a New York hotel by French and South American agencies intent on millions of money, and make a success by the over-night interposition of the United States in recognizing the mushroom republic, with few inhabitants and no organized government. A Cuban paper pertinently asks what would have been thought of the United States a few years ago if it should ever go to a country engaged in a civil war and take up the side of the insurrectionists, as in South Carolina, let us say, in 1861. Recognition of the Confederate States then, with an organized government in ten States and a great army organizing, would have been held by all our people as a crime against the American people, and demanding war against the intervening powers as soon as we were able to prosecute it. The Panama affair is defended by lawyer tactics and fine-spun legal arguments. Not so was the action of Gladstone or Lord John Russell or Palmerston, when there was more cause for recog-nians, who boast a well-regulated conscience, as an audacious performance, resting on unbridled powers and at war with every recognized principle of rightful American conduct? We trampled on the weak, declared secession to be rightful and promoted its success. Is it not a shameful episode in our National history? To whom does disgrace and dishonor attach—to the defeated and crushed Colombian republic or the Union maintained by Lincoln and Seward against the acts of secessionists at home or abroad? The news from South America is precisely such as stirred the American heart in 1861. The president of Colombia in official proclamation declares, as Lincoln and Seward declared, that his government would never recognize the independence of the seceding state, and has left for "the seat of war" with hundred thousand men ready for any emergency. President Roosevelt has declared that by calling out American troops he will resist the constitutional demands of Colombia. So we are to have war in defense of the right of secession. It can be construed in no other way.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Consul General Guder at Panama, cables the state department under today's date as follows: "All of the officials of the former department of Panama are now supporting the republic, and the sentiment is now unanimous. Life and property are fully protected. Commissioners from Colombia, Messrs. Hardon, Isigmariew and Davalla, have arrived at Colon. Commissioners from Panama will meet them there.

New York, Nov. 17.—Flying the flag of the new republic, the steamship City of Washington of the Panama railroad company, came into port today. Among the passengers aboard are Dr. Manuel H. Amador and Frederick Boyd, special commissioners of the new republic, who have come to assist in the negotiations of the new canal treaty. Dr. Amador is said to be the real head of the revolutionary party at Panama. Boyd represents business interests.

CLOSER RELATIONS WITH JAPS

Eagerly Sought by People and Officials of China—The Talk of an Alliance With Japan.

Moscow, Nov. 17.—The Russian military reoccupation of Mukden, Manchuria, has caused much tension, and has aroused such an aggression on the part of China that the continued dispatch of troops to the far east is now said to be directed against the Chinese. Troops totaling 25,000 were ordered to the far east when hostilities appeared imminent, and they are being drafted from the government of Moscow and the nine surrounding provinces. With the troops already in the far east this will give Russia an overwhelming force with which to overthrow China.

CLOSER RELATIONS

With Japan Eagerly Sought by Officials and People of China.

Peking, Nov. 17.—While the Chinese official world is more excited over the present Manchurian situation than over anything for the last two years, the helplessness of the government was never more conspicuously displayed. Several long councils have been held at the palace during the last fortnight without result.

After applying to the American and Japanese legations for assistance the Chinese foreign office admits that its policy is to await the developments of the Russian-Japanese negotiations, hoping that they will result in a partial restoration of Manchuria.

The idea of closer relations between China and Japan is spreading rapidly, and is much discussed by officials and in the press.

INAUGURATION

Of Gov-Elect Herrick Will be a Big Military Affair at Columbus in January.

Columbus, O. Nov. 17.—A conference attended by Governor Nash, Adjutant General Gyger, John R. Malloy and Tod B. Galloway, private secretary to Governor-Elect Herrick, was held yesterday to discuss plans for the ceremonies attending the inauguration of Colonel Myron T. Herrick as governor in January. That the inauguration will be conspicuous for its military display and ceremonies, is admitted by those who have the arrangements in charge. It is expected that the Columbus board of trade will appoint an executive committee shortly to take charge of the entire affair.

BRIBE

Given to Senator Dietrich

For An Appointment As Postmaster

SAYS U. S. GRAND JURY IN ITS INDICTMENT.

NEBRASKA SENATOR IN TROUBLE

Allegations Involve His Seat in Congress—Claimed He Was Given Money and Property

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 17.—The Federal Grand Jury last evening returned true bills against United States Senator Charles H. Dietrich and Postmaster Jacob Fisher, of Hastings, Neb., charging them with conspiracy and bribery in connection with the appointment of Fisher to the position of Postmaster. The indictments were brought in the United States District Court at six o'clock, Judge Munger presiding, and were placed on file, the Court merely accepting the report of the grand jury, making no remarks on its contents beyond an order to the Clerk for the filing of the bills.

The indictment against Senator Dietrich charges that he accepted money and property in consideration of his recommending Fisher for appointment as Postmaster at Hastings. That against Postmaster Fisher charges him with making an agreement with Senator Dietrich by which the former was to pay to property and money $1,500 for securing to Fisher the appointment.

Evidence was presented to the grand jury to show that Fisher had bought postoffice fixtures from the Grand Army post at Hastings of the value of $500, and later turned the property over to Senator Dietrich, to whose building it was removed and to whom was paid a rental by the Government. In addition to turning over this property it is charged that Fisher paid to the Senator $800 in cash.

It is stated that the grand jury has been investigating the postoffice case for nearly three weeks and that a number of witnesses were present from Hastings and other points in the state.

Sensor Dietrich is at present in Washington, and there was no attorney or other person in the city authorized to make a statement for him. All the witnesses in the case left for their homes, among them Postmaster Fisher of Hastings.

The last witness called before the grand jury was William Dutton, a hardware merchant of Hastings. According to Dutton's testimony he (Dutton) acted as intermediary in all the alleged transactions between the indicted men.

The indictments, three in number, each against Senator Dietrich and Postmaster Fisher, were read, and the Court merely ordered them turned over to the Clerk for filing, and the jury was excused. The jury is composed of twenty members, nineteen of whom are said to have voted for the indictment and one against. The members came from all parts of the state, no two of them being a resident of the same town. The foreman, Frank E. White, of Omaha, is secretary of the Grand Lodge of the Masonic order of Nebraska. The other members are mostly prominent business and professional men.

Four other cases said to be of a similar nature, are being investigated by the grand jury, and a report upon part of them is expected very soon. All are cases in which postoffices and postmasters are concerned.

The section under the separate indictments against Senator Dietrich and Jacob Fisher are drawn, is Section 1781 of the Revised Statutes of the United States. The penalty is not more than two years imprisonment and not more than $5,000 fine, and disqualification from holding any office of honor, profit or trust under the Government of the United States.

The section under which the conspiracy indictment is drawn against both Dietrich and Fisher is Section 2419 of the Revised Statutes. The penalty is not more than $10,000 or to imprisonment for not more than two years, or to both, and imprisonment in the discretion of the Court.

Sensor Dietrich was elected by the Legislature of 1901 to succeed Senator Allen, who was defeated by Governor Fowler to fill the prospect term of the late Senator Hayward who died before taking his seat. His term expires March 3, 1905. Postmaster Fisher was formerly Mayor of Hastings, and has been prominent in Republican politics of Nebraska for several years.

ALL POLITICS.

Says a Friend of Dietrich—After Scalp of District Attorney

Washington, Nov. 19.—Senator Dietrich and Editor Rosewater of the Omaha Bee, have arrived in this city, and all inquiries as to the indictment of the senator were referred to Mr. Rosewater, who declared that the indictments were the result of a political fight. Mr. Rosewater declared that Senator Dietrich had a good defense, and added that he and the Senator had come to Washington at this time to bring about the removal of District Attorney Stemmers. He said they already had been to the White House on this mission. Mr. Rosewater declared that District Attorney Stemmers had pushed the charges against Senator Dietrich for the reason that they were politically antagonistic.

Heavily Guarded Are Running.

Half Police Force is on Strike Duty.

UNION PICKETS FIRED ON BY NON-UNION DRIVERS.

A TEAMSTER SEVERELY INJURED

Bullets Were Fired Into the Englewood Police Station, but Nobody There Was Hurt.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—An attempt to resume service on the Cottage Grove Avenue cable line of the Chicago city railway system was made this morning when a lone cable train with a police inspector and fifteen men on board was started up town at 9.45. Extraordinary precautions to suppress disorder were taken, 1,000 policemen being scattered in squads along the Cottage Grove avenue tracks. Along W. Northw. avenue, 300 policemen were stationed, making more than one half of the entire police force of the city now on strike duty. The trip was made without incident.

A heavy guard was put on to pre-

Gen. Manager McCulloch of the Chicago street railroads, the man who is putting up the fight against the strikers in Chicago.

Violence which occurred last night along the Cottage Grove line, when pickets who attempted to stop a train of supplies for Cottage Grove non-union men were fired on by the government at Washington had been carrying food for railroad workmen a railroad camp in the District of Columbia.

Police were fired upon by the strikers at the Englewood police station but no one was hurt.

STRIKE ENDS

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Two-thirds of the strikers on the Chicago city railway system have returned to work, and a heavy guard has been placed on the line. The strikers who remained on the line were fired upon by the government at Washington had been carrying food for railroad workmen a railroad camp in the District of Columbia.

TRAGIC DEATHS

Of President and Cashier Cause Excitement--A Defaulting Cashier--Banker Henry Burkhold Placed Under Arrest at Cincinnati and While Ill is Guarded at his Home.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 17.—There was much excitement in Camden this morning over the tragic deaths of Col. Boyken president of the Farmers and Merchants bank, and A. C. Zemp, the cashier. Boyken was found dead just outside the town. He had gone out to shoot a hawk and it is supposed that he had killed himself accidentally. Zemp, the cashier, went to the Boyken home, then returned to his own home and shot himself. People are loath to believe that the condition of the bank is other than sound.

BANKER ARRESTED.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 17.—Henry Burkhold, the banker, was placed under arrest last evening at his palatial home on the charge of perjury. Last night he slept under guard.

The offense of which Burkhold is said to be guilty involves certain monies which were at one time in the Franklin bank. Burkhold had testimonied in court regarding this money and is alleged on oath that he had made a free confession that his evidence on the witness stand was false. The swearing out of the warrant was precipitated by the announcement of Burkhold's intended departure from the city.

Burkhold was until recently cashier of the Franklin bank. He was one of the most daring speculators in the city, and when it was announced that he was involved on account of the depression in the stock market, his connection with the bank was severed by the directors.

CASHIER A DEFAULTER.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 17.—The Dimes Savings Bank of Portsmouth, has posted a notice saying that John H. Downing the cashier, has defaulted, and left town, but that all depositors will be protected. Downing having been bonded for $15,000. The default is said to have been $12,000.

MARROQUIN FLEES.

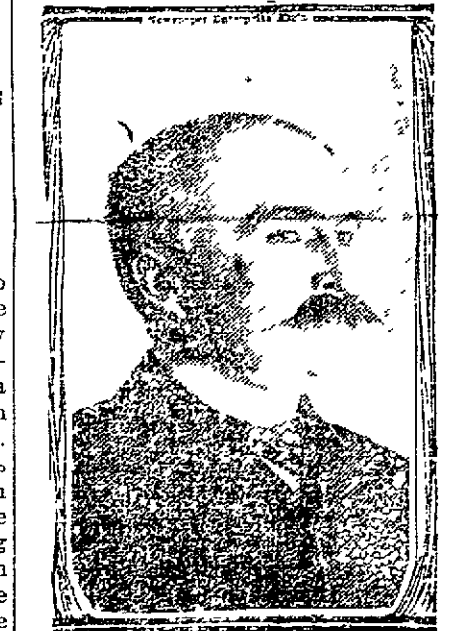

President of Colombia Reaches the United States--
Secession of Panama Laid at His Door--
Appeal to U. S. Senate is Made.

Galveston, Texas, Nov. 17.—Haggard and careworn President Morroquin of Colombia, has arrived here by steamer from Cartagena.

The president was compelled to flee from Bogota, owing to the bitter agitation of the friends of the Inter-Oceanic Canal treaty, who blamed him for the loss of the Panama isthmus to Colombia. His life was in jeopardy, and his departure saved the overthrow of the government, which, for the time being, is headed by Acting President Holguin.

It is learned that President Morroquin intends to proceed at once to Washington, to lay the matter before President Roosevelt and the United States Congress, and invoke their good offices in order to effect the reinstatement of Panama as a province to Colombia and to seek to reach an agreement on a canal treaty that will suit all parties concerned.

APPEAL IS MADE

To the United States Senate to Help Colombia to Regain Panama.

Bogota, Nov. 17.—The President of Colombia, General Morroquin, has sent the following appeal to the American Senate:

"To His Excellency, the President of the Senate, Washington—Excellency: The government and people of Colombia have been painfully surprised at the action taken by the United States to effect the reinstatement of Panama as a province to Colombia and to seek to reach an agreement on a canal treaty that will suit all parties concerned.

"It is to be hoped that the petition for justice which Colombia makes to the American people will be favorably received by a sound public opinion among the sons of that country."

"ESTABAN JARMILLO, Minister of Government."

SENATOR MORGAN, ENEMY OF THE PANAMA ROUTE.

Washington, Nov. 17.—One of the grand old men of the United States Senate is John T. Morgan, of Alabama. Among the Democrats of that body he occupies a rank analogous to that of Senator Hoar on the Republican side. Eighty years of age, he carries himself as upright as he did at the head of his regiment and brigade when he offered the west that was in him for the cause of the south on the field of battle.

His name will go down in history inseparably linked with the story of the movement looking to an isthmian canal. "The Father of the Canal" he has been called in debate—father of it, whether it be Nicaraguan or Panama route, although an uncompromising advocate of the former. His opposition to the Panama route has been of the sternest, most unbending character, and in that regard he occupies the same position today as he did when he first took up the agitation on the floor of the Senate and outside it.

There are many who are yet confident that Senator Morgan will in the end see the light and that a Panama canal will never be built.

The Vetter Dyspepsia Remedy Co., Cleveland, Ohio:

After months of suffering with dyspepsia, and having vainly sought for relief through the aid of doctors, and a number of so-called dyspepsia cures, at the suggestion of a friend, I tried your "Remedy" and obtained relief within twenty-four hours. I continued the use of the "Remedy" until I had used three bottles, and since that time, now more than a year ago by, I have not had a recurrence of the trouble, and am able to partake of any and all foods that I may desire.

I certainly consider Vetter's Dyspepsia Remedy a boon to all who may be afflicted as I was, and shall surely recommend it whenever the opportunity presents itself.

DECREASE IN SUPPLY OF AMERICAN FROGS

Washington, Nov. 17.—As a nation of frog eaters we have the French beaten to a frazzle.

F. M. Chamberlain, of the United States fish commission, is authority for the statement.

"For a long time," he said, "the French were the only people who availed themselves of frogs as a delicacy, though it was known to the Romans. From France the use of this food passed into Germany, England, other parts of Europe, and later into the United States. Now frogs are more generally consumed in this country than in any other, and although it may astonish some people, it may be stated that the annual consumption of frogs in the United States is 10 times that in France."

Chamberlain has prepared a bulletin dealing with the edible frogs of the United States and their artificial propagation. Ohio and Indiana are among the eight principal frog producing states of the union. Among the localities in which especially important frog hunting is done are the marshes of the western end of Lake Erie, and Lewis and Grand reservoirs in Ohio, and the valley of the Kankakee river, Indiana.

The annual catch in the United States is but little less than 1,000,000, with a gross value to the hunters of about $50,000. The yearly cost of frogs and forelegs to consumers is not less than $150,000. The unrestricted hunting of frogs threatens their practical extinction in all places where their abundance or proximity to market renders the business profitable. Already a marked decrease in the supply is manifest in Lake Erie.

The prices paid for frogs vary greatly. Dressed legs yield the hunters from 12 to 25 cents a pound, and live frogs from 5 cents to $1 a dozen. In the Kankakee valley frog hunters get 75 cents a dozen for large frogs, 10 cents for medium sized, and 5 cents for small ones. In San Francisco the market price is $3 to $4 per dozen.

The cure of rheumatism by bee sting is said by a Vienna physician to have been successful in 500 cases.

CHINKS AND PINOS KICK ON AMERICAN MAJOR

Washington, Nov. 17.—Queer complaints have reached the war department concerning the treatment of the Chinese and Filipinos who are employed under Major Kennon in the Benguet road construction in the Philippines. Thirteen hundred men are engaged on this work, most of them Chinese and natives.

The chinks complain because under Major Kennon's orders the lights in the camps are turned out at 9 p. m. They declare that they can't go to sleep so early and that it interferes with their pipe hitting pleasures. They think they ought to be allowed to cultivate the opium habit after a hard day's work until 11 o'clock.

The Filipinos don't like the bill of fare. They get meat three times a day, together with a pound and a half of rice. They want less meat and more rice.

COUNCIL

HELD A REGULAR MEETING ON MONDAY NIGHT.

Mayor Vetoes Ordinance and Gives Reasons for It—Riverside Addition Accepted by Council.

Council met Monday evening with Messrs. Baker, Carlisle, Conrad, Hunter, Jones, Moser and Miller present. President Russell could not be present and Mr. Miller presided in his absence.

The record of the previous meeting was read by Clerk Maurath and was approved by council.

A report from the Mayor notifying council that John A. Chilente had been appointed to succeed Harry J. Hoover as member of the sinking fund trustees was read. The appointment was confirmed by council.

A report from the finance committee approving the ordinance to issue $3000 bonds to pay for the equipping of the North Fourth street fire department station was read and the ordinance ordered filed.

A report from the Mayor approving various resolutions and ordinances passed by council was received and filed.

Mayor Grilly returned the second ordinance passed by council to accept the Wehrle addition, giving the same reason as he gave in his veto of the first ordinance, that the streets of the said addition had not been placed in proper condition under direction of the city officials.

A petition was presented by Mr. Baker to release W. V. Laird from the tax duplicate for the Elmwood avenue sewer because the sewer is 18 inches higher than the floor of his kitchen. Mr. Laird was present and stated to council that the sewer was to have been nine feet deep whereas it is less than six feet deep. The petition was referred to the street committee.

An ordinance to accept E. H. Everett's Riverside addition to the city was given its third reading. The ordinance was passed, Mr. Moser alone voting against it.

The ordinance to issue $3000 bonds to pay for the equipping of the North Fourth street fire department station was read for the second time. The rules were suspended and the ordinance was given its third reading and was passed by council.

An ordinance to change the name of Vale street to Jackson street was given its initial reading.

A motion was made by Judge Hunter to pass the ordinance to construct sidewalks on both sides of Wing street over the Mayor's veto.

The ordinances to construct sidewalks on the east side of Flory avenue, on both sides of Grant street, and on the east side of Pine street, which were vetoed by the Mayor, were passed over the veto.

Resolutions.

By Hunter—To construct a sewer on Locust street from Fifth street to Eleventh street: second reading.

By Moser—To borrow $3484 in anticipation of a special assessment to raise money to pay for the construction of sidewalks on Grant, Wing, and Pine streets and Flory avenue; adopted under suspension of rules.

By Carlisle—To instruct the city civil engineer to locate an extension of Vale street to St. Clair street; adopted.

By Baker—To construct a brick crossing on East Locust street facing the first alley west of the railroad tracks; adopted.

By Baker—To construct a brick crossing on Indiana street facing Front street; adopted.

By Baker—To construct a brick crossing across Wilson street between the Wehrle foundry and the creek bridge.

ZERO

Weather in Nebraska and a Chilly Breeze in Chicago.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 17.—The weather is intensely cold in Nebraska today for so early in the winter season. The mercury registered zero in the northern section. The cold wave is sweeping south and the government observatory in Lincoln predicts that it will extend on to the Gulf. Colder weather is predicted for tomorrow.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—A big chill wind blew out of Medicine Hat last night and when Chicago awoke this morning it found itself in the lap of real winter weather. At 9 o'clock the mercury registered 18 above, a drop of 25 degrees since Monday. The weather bureau predicts a further fall in the temperature of from 12 to 15 degrees. The Dakotas, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Illinois and portions of Michigan are embraced in the section affected by the cold wave.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 17.—The thermometer registered 16 degrees above zero here this morning. Severe cold weather is general in this section.

ALCOHOL IN KIDNEY REMEDIES DESTROYS KIDNEY TISSUES.

Remember this:—Kidney-Wort Tablets CANNOT contain alcohol.

Swelling Hands and Jaundice Warned JAMES TRISTAN of Kidney Disease.

James T. Tristan, 42 Rensselaer St., Albany, N. Y., wrote Oct. 3, 1903 "Pain in the back, swellings of the hands and ankles, scalding urine, constipated bowels, jaundice and dancing spots before my eyes told me I had kidney trouble. Several medicines did me no good. Kidney-Wort Tablets cured me completely."

The kidneys are the sewers of the body. Obstructed or injured, they cease work and produce disease. But all kidney disorders are not equally dangerous. The peril is in allowing one of the milder forms to grow into a more dangerous sort.

Stone in the bladder or kidneys, nausea, constipation, depression of spirits, backaches, sideaches, lumbago, headaches, tired feelings, nervousness, general weakness, and in female derangements—many of which are due to disordered kidneys—all these will cease to cause anxiety after using Kidney-Wort Tablets.

If you are in doubt, if your back aches, if you have piercing or Burning Pains, if your urine is foul, take the safe course and write your symptoms to Consultation Department, 133 College street, Burlington, Vt., who will advise you free, whether you are in danger or not.

THE REAL REPUBLICAN LEADER.

Senator Hanna's denials that he is in the race for political preferment, with particular reference to the presidency, must be taken with a good-sized grain of salt. The persistent way in which his name is kept before the public, and always as a possible candidate for the nomination, gives color to the statement that he will be an actual candidate for the nomination when the time comes. That he is becoming recognized as the National Republican leader cannot be disputed. One of the most important announcements tending to substantiate the assertion that the Ohio man, and not Mr. Roosevelt, will be the next Republican nominee for the presidency comes from Harper's Weekly, that more or less conservative periodical. In its issue of November 14, in an article of an editorial nature on "Results of the Election," these striking sentences are used so closely together as to have a direct bearing one on the other:

"The unexpected magnitude of the victory gained by Senator Hanna, whose seat it will be remembered, is to be filled by the Legislature just elected, has driven home to the consciousness of the Republicans all over the country that he, and not Mr. Roosevelt is the real leader of their party. * * * We should not be surprised if the contrast between the results of the elections in New York and in Ohio should have a profound effect on the next Republican National convention."

The opinion of Harper's Weekly must be taken as representative of a large part of the conservative Republican party, and this being true anyone who runs may read. The conservative element is becoming tired of the President, and fearful lest the impetuosity of youth will embroil this country in undesirable and dangerous complications. One thing is sure and that is that Mr. Hanna is looming up as a mighty dangerous opponent of Mr. Roosevelt.

There are in this country today two men, Rev. J. O'Donovan and R. A. Anderson, representatives of the Irish Agricultural organization, whose mission is to interest Irish people in particular and Americans generally in their society. They came to this country on invitation of the Irish Industrial League of America, and will make a tour of the principal cities of the country. The institution they represent is non-political, co-operative and philanthropic, and its purpose is to foster existing industries in Ireland and to establish new ones connected directly with agriculture. While the society has been in existence some twelve years, still the recently enacted Wyndham bill offers it enlarged opportunities. Neither politics nor religion is allowed to enter into the affairs of the organization, and the men at the head of it do not receive pay for what they do. Already the society has done much for Irish industries and agriculture, and the two representatives are enthusiastic regarding the future.

TARIFF REVISION

Has Become a Necessity, Says Democratic Leader of the House--It will be Part of Next Campaign Issues--Why Democrats Will Vote for Cuban Reciprocity.

Washington, Nov. 17.—John Sharp Williams, leader of the House Democrats, talked interestingly in explanation of the action of the party at Saturday night's caucus with reference to the Payne bill making effective the Cuban reciprocity treaty.

"We believe," said Mr. Williams, "that whenever the Republican party introduces any reciprocity bill which reduces duties upon all the imports between two countries, as this bill does upon those between the United States and Cuba, contending that such a treaty will be beneficial to both countries, the Republicans thereby and to that extent endorse Democratic principles and purposes, and disavowance the past and present Republican position toward the tariff. We would rather, of course, have tariff revision by legislation in a conservative and sensible way than to have piecemeal revision by treaties. But if we can't get the Republicans to retract all their errors we are glad when they even partially retract any of them."

"We believe, moreover, there are peculiar reasons why reciprocal trade relations should be established between the United States and Cuba. These reasons transcend the reasons that can be stated in favor of reciprocity between the United States and any other country, Canada alone excepted. We hope the President will take the initiative in causing the reconvening of the high joint commission for the purpose of bringing about a larger volume of trade between the United States and Canada. We still hold to the time honored doctrine that an unnecessary high tariff is an unnecessary tax on the consumer, whether levied here, in Canada or in Cuba. Therefore, when by reciprocity, we reduce an unnecessarily or by lightening his burdens. We believe that when we obtain from any other nation an agreement to lighten the tax upon its consumers of American products we at the same time benefit the American producer, because such foreign countries that are now buying American products can and will buy more of them at a cheaper price, while others hitherto unable to buy them at all will be able to buy some quantity of them. So that the American producer will sell a larger quantity of goods than heretofore to the foreign consumer, at a lower price, but still at a profit to himself—sometimes, owing to bargaining that goes on in trade at a larger profit although a less price."

"Then it is your opinion Mr. Williams," the correspondent suggested, "that tariff revision is to be made as soon as possible?"

"I think," Mr. Williams said, in conclusion, "the Democratic party will fight in the next campaign for a revision of the tariff, involving a reduction in duties so far as may be consistent with effective but economical administration of the government, but with no desire or intent to revolutionize destructively or to cripple honest, legitimate and non-monopolistic enterprise."

issue by the Democratic party in next year's campaign?"

"I have no doubt the revision of the tariff will enter into the next campaign," he answered, "and I am satisfied an overwhelming majority of the American people, Republicans as well as Democrats, are dissatisfied with at least this much of the present tariff—that part of it which enables combinations, trusts, or individual manufacturers to obtain exorbitant profits from American consumers of their goods by means of a tariff wall so high that it cannot possibly be surmounted by foreign competition, while at the same time they are selling their output at a lower price to the citizens or subjects of foreign countries."

"I think," Mr. Williams said, in conclusion, "the Democratic party will fight in the next campaign for a revision of the tariff, involving a reduction in duties so far as may be consistent with effective but economical administration of the government, but with no desire or intent to revolutionize destructively or to cripple honest, legitimate and non-monopolistic enterprise."

NINETEEN

REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIERS ARE BURIED HERE.

Society Hopes to Get an Appropriation That Will Enable All Graves to be Marked.

Col. W. L. Curry, registrar for the Ohio Society of the Sons of the Revolution, has received a letter telling of the removal of the remains of Gopher Potter from a farm near Eaton to a public cemetery. He was a revolutionary soldier.

The Ohio Society has taken up the work of locating the burial places of all the revolutionary soldiers who died and were buried in Ohio, and hopes to mark each with a suitable stone. Col. Curry said that the society had authentic reports of the burial in Ohio of 2,000 such soldiers. They came largely from Virginia. The society hopes to secure from the legislature this winter an appropriation sufficient to mark all the graves as proposed.

There are 19 soldiers of the Revolution buried in Newark and Licking county, and through the courtesy of Mrs. Charles Hempstead the Advocate is enabled to publish the names which were secured by Hotchkiss Chapter, D. A. R. They are, Sergeant Timothy Rose, Lemuel Rose, Captain David Gavitt, Elphaz Wright, William Gavitt, Elijah Bryan, Daniel Balser, Zachariah Albaugh, Jonathan Benjamin, John Board, James Colville, Captain Samuel Elliott, John Edwards, Evan Humphrey, James Taylor, Archibald Wilson, Benjamin Wilson.

Not long ago the graves of the Revolutionary soldiers at Granville were appropriately marked.

A GREAT LABOR STRIKE.

Millions of Workers Out One of the greatest labor strikes you can possibly imagine is that which takes place in your body when you eat improper food. Your body is a workshop and in it are millions and millions of workers—tissue builders. In the stomach alone there are more than five million of these workers, whose business it is to debase the means to build the body. If the food you eat is of a poor quality these five million toilers—these five millions of little microscopic peepin makers—strike, and millions and millions of other tissue builders in other parts of the body also strike through sympathy. They may strike for but a short time, but it is long enough to throw a lot of the delicate and intricate machinery in that wonderful workshop of yours out of repair and cause all manner of trouble.

The way to avoid labor strikes in the body is to supply that vast horde of artisans which build it with proper food material, and for this purpose there is nothing so good as Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit, the only naturally porous food made from the wheat. It is light, crisp, wholesome, and can be digested with ease. Shredded Wheat makes rich, red blood, blood that makes strong men, women, and children.

"I have used Shredded Wheat Biscuits in hospital practice and find the results highly satisfactory. They are especially beneficial in cases of indigestion, complicated with constipation."—Albert A. Taft, M. D., Carney Hospital, Boston, Mass.

"As a digestive and in cases of chronic constipation and dyspepsia, Shredded Wheat acts as one of the very best remedies I have ever prescribed."—E. F. Anderson, M. D., Colorado Springs, Col.

BURIAL

Of Mrs. Elizabeth Granger Took Place at Granville Tuesday—Mrs. James Surprised.

Granville, O., Nov. 17.—One of Granville's oldest and most respected citizens departed this life Saturday afternoon, at her home on East College street, after an illness of some time with diseases incident to old age. The deceased, Mrs. Elizabeth Granger, was the relict of the late Sylvester S. Granger, and had been an honored citizen of Granville for many years. The funeral took place today at 10 o'clock from Mrs. Granger's late home, Dr. C. J. Baldwin, pastor of the Baptist church conducting the ceremony. Mrs. Granger was born April 22, 1823. She was married early in life to Mr. Sylvester S. Granger, and was the mother of a large family of children, of whom the following survive: Miss L. E. Granger of New York City, Edwin Granger of Chicago, Ill., Mrs. Mary Caldwell of Council Bluffs, Iowa, Mrs. Elizabeth Freiner, Mrs. Luella Grandstaff and Mrs. Carrie Thurston of Granville. The deceased was an excellent Christian woman.

Mrs. T. C. James was the recipient of a delightful surprise from a number of her friends and relatives at her home on the Columbus road, about half a mile southwest of the village, on last Thursday night. There were about thirty persons present and the affair was in honor of the anniversary of the birth of Mrs. James. The evening was spent in games of all kinds, music, etc., which was seasoned with an oyster supper.

Miss Rose Hennessy, well known as a poetess and elocutionist, of Lexington, Ky., tells how she was cured of uterine inflammation and ovaritis by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For years I enjoyed the best of health and thought that I would always do so. I attended parties and receptions thickly clad, and would be suddenly chilled, but I did not think of the results. I caught a bad cold eighteen months ago while menstruating, and this caused inflammation of the womb and congested ovaries. I suffered excruciating pains and kept getting worse. My attention was called to your Vegetable Compound and the wonderful cures it had performed, and I made up my mind to try it for two months and see what it would do for me. Within one month I felt much better, and at the close of the second I was entirely well.

"I have advised a number of my lady friends to use it, and all express themselves as well satisfied with the results as I was."—Miss Rose Nora Hennessy, 410 S. Broadway, Lexington, Ky.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

WEDDING

OF MRS. GRACE RINGLE UPDYKE TO HARRY KING

Will Be the Culmination of a Pretty Romance Begun in Granville Years Ago.

Tuesday morning's Cincinnati Enquirer contains a Tiffin, Ohio, dispatch, announcing the approaching marriage of Mrs. Grace Ringle, formerly Miss Grace Ringle, to Mr. Harry King. Both have many friends in Newark and also in Granville where ten years ago they attended school. The Tiffin correspondent of the Enquirer makes a pretty romance out of the match. This is what the dispatch says:

Tiffin, Ohio, Nov. 16.—Within a few days in this city will occur the marriage of Harry King, of King's Mills, near Cincinnati, and Mrs. Grace Updyke, of Atica, this county. The groom-to-be is the son of the millionaire carriage and powder manufacturer, who is owner of the Peter's carriage and King powder plants at King's Mills.

The bride is a descendant of one of the first families of this county.

Behind the forthcoming nuptial event is an interesting little romance. Ten years ago Grace Ringle was the reigning belle and beauty of the entire eastern section of the county. Doubly gifted with rare personal charms and all the advantages that the wealth of a fond father could lavish upon an only daughter, she was considered the best matrimonial catch of all the community, which is noted far and near for its beautiful women.

Consequently she numbered her suitors by the score. Among them was Henry Updyke, a young man of more humble conditions, who found much favor in the eyes of the dashing beauty. Updyke was not looked upon with favor by the paternal Ringle, and Grace was sent to Denison college at Granville, to complete her education and at the same time forget her unfavorable suitor. At Denison she met Harry King, young, dashing and debonaire, the leader of his fraternity set and one of the brightest students at the institution.

It is said that he at once commenced to pay marked attention to the fair coed. She, however, was true to her former sweetheart, and after the completion of her course returned home and married Updyke in spite of bitter parental objections.

As is some times the case the wisdom of the father was not at fault when he opposed the marriage. The union proved a most unhappy one, and soon after the arrival of a baby girl the husband and wife separated, the wife ultimately obtaining a divorce.

Returning to her father's home the young wife, now saddened by her unhappy matrimonial experience and the cares of motherhood, devoted her means and time largely to relieving the wants of the poor and afflicted, until there is not a person, needy or infirm, within the radius of her ministrations but who blesses her name.

In the meantime young King graduated and went to work in his father's office. He did not forget the dark-haired college girl in his daily duties. The flame which burned in his heart while coming Greek and Latin had not died out, and when he heard that the object of his boyhood affection was again free he proffered her his hand and heart. His patience and perseverance were this time rewarded with a favorable answer, and their approaching wedding is the happy sequel of the romance commenced within the historic walls of old Denison nearly ten years ago.

The Enquirer adds this to the foregoing dispatch:

Young King is well known in social Cincinnati, in whose circles he has moved for several years. Mr. King has many fraternity friends here and is favorably known in hilltop society and the swifter clubdom of those districts.

Jim Corbett's Joke.

Jim Corbett was recently spending Sunday in a lake resort near Chicago. A party of young people were trying hard to persuade the landlady, a Mrs. Gunn, to let them have a hop on Saturday evening. As the delegation of girls who had been waiting on Mrs. Gunn with the request trooped out again on the veranda, Corbett asked: "Well, what luck?" "None at all," sighed the doctored spokesman. "And I actually humbled myself to the extent of kissing her, too; and I got powder all over my lips from her face when I did it," she added viciously, "but she refuses to let us have that dance." "I see," mused Corbett, "you managed to get powder from the Gunn, but you couldn't extract the bail."—New York World.

FUNERAL

Of the Father of Greater New York Took Place in the Metropolis Today.

New York, Nov. 17.—The funeral of Andrew H. Green, "the Father of Greater New York," was held this morning. The services were conducted ed by Dr. Richardson and lasted only an hour. Most of the city's prominent citizens, including Mayor Low, were at the church. Besides these were delegates from the departments of the municipal government as well as from the many prominent societies of which Mr. Green was a member. The city is planning a testimonial to Mr. Green. Many plans have been discussed but nothing has been decided.

Cornelius M. Green, the negro who shot and killed Mr. Green, pleaded "not guilty" to an indictment charging him with murder in the first degree today. Williams when giving the reasons for his crime, referred to one Bessie Davis, who will be called upon to make a statement of what she knows of the case. The woman was found in a luxurious house at 236 Central park, a most fashionable section, where she is known as Mrs. Hannah Elias. She has a Japanese maid, a Chinese cook and other servants. She has lived in seclusion but neighbors say her establishment must cost about $25,000 a year. They did not suspect that she had negro blood in her veins, but thought she was an oriental princess in exile. The woman is about 40 years old. She says she never knew Mr. Green.

REWARD

Of One Thousand Dollars Outstanding For Arrest of Man Apprehended by Zanesville Police.

Zanesville, O., Nov. 17.—Len Stevens who escaped from the Belmont county jail about a year and a half ago, and for whose arrest a reward of $1,000 was offered by the Belmont county officials, has been arrested here in company with his step-brother, "Moody" Devine. The charge against Stevens and Devine is passing counterfeit money. Moody Devine is a brother of Barney Devine who escaped from the Belmont county jail with Stevens, both being confined there on charges of perjury.

Barney Devine was captured here a year ago, returned to Belmont county and convicted of perjury, and is now serving a sentence in the Ohio penitentiary. Stevens and Devine were originally tried and convicted in Belmont county for murder in the first degree for the alleged murder of little Clarence Worwick on Christmas eve, 1900, at Somerton. A new trial was granted by the Circuit court, and the Belmont county officials, fearful of the result of a second trial, and anxious to hold the men, preferred perjury charges against the two. It was while they were awaiting trial on this charge that they escaped.

Soon after their escape the bank at Somerton was blown and robbed of a sum of money variously estimated at from $500 to $3000.

CONGRESSMAN OVERSTREET AND POSTOFFICE SCANDAL.

REED SMOOT

In the Opinion of Senator Dubois Will Be Unseated When Evidence is Shown.

Washington, Nov. 17.—Senator Dubois called at the White House. He is the leader of the anti Smoot party in the Senate. He said: "I think the Senate will convict Smoot and unseat him. I think the entire Republican and Democratic delegation will when we have shown certain evidence, throw him out. If he were a horse thief he would be thrown out and we can show he is worse than that. He is at the head of a church which fosters and encourages polygamy." Senator Dubois has 5,000 Mormon voters in Idaho, his state.

SUPREME

Court Makes Ruling in Favor of Christian Science.

Columbus, Nov. 17.—The Supreme court has placed the band of approval upon the right of believers in Christian Science to refuse to call a medical doctor to treat a minor child. The decision came today in the case of Ohio against Sylvia Bishop and her husband brought upon exception from Butler county. The parents were indicted for manslaughter for refusing to call a doctor for their child, which died. They were acquitted. The state filed exceptions and these today were overruled.

NEW BARN

Built by the Interurban Company is About Ready for Use—Men Living in Newark.

By next week it is expected that everything in connection with the car barns of the Columbus, Buckeye Lake & Newark road, will be located in the commodious new structure on Twelfth street.

Most of the motormen and conductors have already removed to Newark and the others will rapidly follow, so that everything now at Hebron in connection with the housing of men and cars will be located in this city.

The spur of track running from Eleventh street to the new car barns, is complete and on Monday all the cars on the Newark & Granville and the Newark city lines were housed in the new barns, the old barns on Eleventh street, being now entirely abandoned.

ROCK

Fell Upon Track and a B. & O. Engine Struck it.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 17.—A passenger train on the B. & O. running from Chicago to New York, crashed in to a rock that has fallen on the track at Barracksville, W. Va., this morning and was partially derailed. The rock was as big as a freight car. The passengers were dumped from their seats and berths. No one was seriously hurt, although many were bruised and scratched. The engineer's presence of mind in applying the emergency brake prevented probable loss of life.

Engineer Johnson was badly scolded. The fireman and baggage-master were taken from the wreck with slight injuries. All traffic will be blocked for the greater part of the day. The engine is almost a total wreck.

STRANGER

WELL CARED FOR IN NEWARK BY AUTHORITIES.

Columbus Paper Wastes Sympathy on Young Fellow Who Had Epileptic Fit on the Street.

The State Journal Monday wasted a lot of maudlin sympathy on a young fellow who fell in an epileptic fit on the East Side Sunday.

It printed the following after stating that a young Hungarian had fallen in a fit:

"A crowd of curious onlookers gathered and one or two tried to revive the young fellow. Two or three physicians stopped a moment, but offered no assistance."

"Several bystanders suggested that the fellow be taken to the City Hospital, but were told that he was not wanted there."

"The Hungarian was presently assisted to his feet, and had not more kindly disposed young fellows stayed to watch him, he would have fallen a second time. In a few minutes he was again struggling with one of the fits, but no heed was paid by those who should have seen him removed from the street and properly cared for, as would have been done in most other cities."

"Many unfavorable criticisms were heard of the treatment given the young stranger and the indifference shown by those whose humanity should have prompted them to try to relieve the fellow's sufferings."

Now here are the facts in the case. The "Hungarian" is a German, born in America, named Edward Benson. On October 24 he came to Township Trustee Evert Everts, and was absolutely stranded. Mr. Everts gave him transportation to Columbus, and Sunday's Columbus Dispatch gives the account of his actions while there, which shows how much sympathy the fellow deserved, even if what the Journal says is true.

"Edward Benson, the epileptic who was cared for by the police department for some days, in the hope that the police surgeon could get him in one of the local hospitals for an operation on his skull, is now a fugitive from justice, and is wanted by the police."

"After he left the prison hospital a woman by the name of Mrs. Marie Fritschy, of 129 South Scioto street, took pity on him and gave him a home. The police surgeon gave him medicine which improved his physical condition and being of good build, he secured a position with the interurban railroad hustling freight at the Gay street station."

"Saturday afternoon Mrs. Fritschy called at the police station and filed complaint against Benson, charging that he stole about $2 of her money and ran away. A daughter of Mrs. Fritschy saw him take the money and chased him for some distance, but he finally outfooted her."

As a matter of fact, Mr. Everts, as soon as he was notified of Benson's condition, ordered Bowers & Bradley's ambulance, and the epileptic was taken to the city hospital where he was given the best of attention during the night. Yesterday Mr. Everts personally called at the hospital but Benson had left. Later he met him and took him to the Columbian hotel and got him his dinner, and gave him a ticket to Mt. Vernon and went with him to the train, and saw him leave town.

Not a Sick Day Since.

"I was taken severely sick with kidney trouble. I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One day I saw an ad. of your Electric Bitters and determined to try that. After taking a few doses I felt relieved, and soon thereafter was entirely cured, and have not been sick a day since. Neighbors of mine have been cured of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Liver and Kidney troubles and General Debility." This is what B. F. Bass, of Fremont, N. C. writes. Only 50c. at F. D. Hall, Drug-gist.

MT. VERNON

GRAND JURY RETURNED MANY INDICTMENTS.

Knox County Jurors Find That Beat Law Has Been Violated in Our Neighboring Town.

Mt. Vernon, O., Nov. 17.—The grand jury reported last evening to Judge George Corner. The jury was in session six days, examined over 100 witnesses and investigated 41 cases.

The following indictments were made public: Robert Blackburn and Luther Williams, cutting to wound; Paris E. Wells, embezzlement; Curt Robinson, A. L. Stokes and B. J. Garrity, assault and battery; Robert Mullaney and Herbert Hammond, larceny. While only the above bills were made public it is known that there are a large number of indictments for selling intoxicating liquors in violation of the Beal law, the result of work on the part of Ohio and the saloon league. It is said that there are at least 20 indictments of this character and for gambling.

A number of the men named in these sub rosa bills are said to be in distant towns awaiting news from the grand jury room. Recently several men who had been operating alleged "temperance" saloons departed for the west. Prosecutor Ewalt stated that there would be a package of surprises when all the bills are made up.

MOTHER IS THE ONLY ONE.

Oh, mother's gettin' old an' gray, Some day, why she'll be laid away Down in th' field by th' old mill stream Where all th' roses love to dream; An' when that happens, like ez not, Th' old farm'll just 'bout go to pot. We'd lose all hope if ma was gone, Fer she most runs th' farm alone. Up with th' sparrers every morn, Callin' th' chickens to their corn; She cooks a meal I wouldn't trade For th' finest farmhouse ever made; She cleans th' house an' sets th' hens, An' shoos th' pigs back to their pens; (She feeds th' cows, an' then she goes Inter th' house an' sews and sews. An' bakes a cake an' runs th' churn An' gathers in th' wood to burn, An' ef you say, "Ma rest awhile!" She'll answer with her old sweet smile "Child, I am't tired a bit. Are you? We can't rest when there's work to do. An' supper 'er, th' chores all done, She hears our lessons, one by one, An' then she sees th' cat is fed An' puts the children all to bed, An' when th' family's tucked away, Then she alone kneels down to pray. A Stagecoach Romance
(Original)
We were speaking of old stagecoach days, when people really traveled. "Nowadays," said a member of the party, "people don't travel. They step into an elegantly furnished apartment, go to bed and the next morning wake up at their destination. Formerly when one stepped into a stagecoach, heard the driver's whip crack and was jolted along a lumpy road day and night for a week—that was traveling. Besides, the acquaintances, attachments, weddings, that resulted from being so closely thrown together—I tell you, there was romance in stagecoach traveling."
"Would you like to hear one of them romances?" asked a graybeard in the corner, removing a cob pipe from his mouth.
The advocate of the stagecoach looked somewhat taken aback; the others all called for the story.
"It was afore the Union Pacific was built, and I was goin' to Frisco by stage. I got into the old wood and iron and leather trap, thinkin' I was the only passenger, and tuk the back seat; but, lookin' up suddenly, I saw one of the pertiest gals, a-sittin' on the fore seat, a-facin' me, ye'veer see. She had a head of flaxen hair made into a rope braid long enough to bang a jayhawk-er with, her cheeks were a rosy red, and her eyes were like the twin lakes back of Georgetown, Colo.
"Wal, now, it wasn't to be supposed that I, a gay bird of twenty-five, was a-goin' to ride with a hull middle seat between me and a bloomin' gal of nineteen. It wasn't more'n half an hour afore I had her on the back seat, with my arm around her waist to help her over the bumps. She fought mighty shy, lookin' sideways out'n the off window, and kep' tellin' me that I oughtn't to make love so sudden and all that. All the same, she 'peared to like it, and I kep' it up. I noticed that she looked worried, and when I tole her how I loved her and would give my life for her she 'peared to doubt me. Then when I swore I'd kill any one who dared lay a finger on her she got confidential and tole her story. She said she was a-facin' from a brutal stepfather, who was pursuin' her on a trumped up charge to git her inter his hands. 'In that bag,' she said, 'I've got some of the fortune my poor father left me, and if I can git to Frisco I'll find his old lawyer and be safe.'
"I jested pulled my weapon around and tole her I had six bullets for that stepfather.
"When we was a-pollin' up to 'the fast relay to change' we saw a dozen mounted men waitin'. The gal turned pale. 'Say I'm yer sister,' she gasped. One of the men rode to the stage door, poked a cracked revolver in at the window and looked us over.
" 'What's yer name?' he asked me.
" 'Thomas Winter.'
" 'The gal?'
" 'My sister, Mollie Winter.'
" 'He turned away, and I heard him say to the others, 'He ain't aboard.' Then to the driver's 'We're lookin' fur one of the gang that robbed the S—bank. Haven't seen no skulkers on the route, have ye?' The driver tole him he hadn't and drove on.
" 'What luck fur you,' I said to the gal, might pleased that they hadn't troubled her. 'I reckon they're in the pay o' yer stepfather and made a purse of lookin' fur the bank robber.'
" 'Reckon they was,' she said, a-tremblin'.
" 'And if they had searched yer baggage and found yer fortune they might a' thought ye was in cahoots with the robbers and a-helpin' 'em away with the plunder.'
" 'It would a' been dreadful embarrassin', she said, shudderin'.
" 'I tuk her in my arms and soothed her. She just laid her head on my shoulder and sobbed. When we'd went about five mile all of a sudden she up and said she was a-goin' to git out. I tole her I thought she was goin' to find the lawyer at Frisco, but she said she was feared they'd be after her ag'in; she'd better hide fur awhile afore goin' on. I wanted to stick to her, but she said she was under obligation enough to me and wouldn't hear of it.
" 'I well remember that partin'. It was evenin', and a new moon was helpin' out the twilight. We stopped the stage, and both got out. There was no one near but the driver on the box; nothin' but the forest on all sides. I tuk her hand, and I said:
" 'I swear I'm not goin' to desert the gal I love in this cowardly fashion. I'm a-goin' to stick to yer through thick and thin, and the nex' party as stops yer 'I have to face my shootin' iron.'
" 'A sudden change came over her lin'aments.
" 'Ye bloomin' galoot,' she said, pullin' a revolver from her petticoats, 'yer goin' on with that coach, and I'm goin' in a different direction with the bank plunder! I'm no gal; I'm a man, and if ye don't get into that stage mighty quick I'll bore a hole inter ye, sarlin'.
" 'I was taken so dead aback that I stood capin' at the gal, thinkin' she was a-playin' some game on me. I couldn't at once git on to it that them beautiful rosy cheeks, them flashin' eyes, that flax hair, belonged to a man. I stood with my head throbed back, my mouth and eyes open in astonishment.
" 'Git into the coach,' she said again. 'D'ye think I'm goin' to let ye wait here to pint the way I go?'
" 'This time she enforced her words with a bullet that sang close to my right ear and was preparin' to fire again. I stepped into the coach, and the feller tole the driver to move on. The last thing I heard was:
" 'Goodby, sweetheart!'

TABITHA'S FALL FROM THE HEIGHTS
By ELLIOT WALKER
Copyright, 1932, by J. C. McClure
"It seems to me, Tabitha, that sometimes you think I don't know anything," observed Peter in a tone of rueful impatience as he stood just inside the kitchen door. His hand held it sufficiently ajar to admit a draft of icy air which circulated freely about Miss Groot's well developed shoulders as she kneaded her dough in the bread pan with sounding thumps.
"Observin' man!" responded the lady. "At certain periods, Pete, I have discerned faint glimmerings of intelligence under that shock of tow coverin' what in most folks is considered a brain cavity, but not often—not often. Boo! What's open?"
She wheeled her plump figure with an emphatic movement and transfixed the thoughtless Peter with a glare of disapproval.
Tabitha was a student, not in the ordinary sense, but of the rare variety which assiduously seeks for an enlargement of knowledge, her special ambition being the acquisition of language. Unhappily, or perhaps otherwise, her opportunities were limited. The Bunfield Gazette was her principal source of material and, coming regularly once a week, supplied an effective course of general information.
In this sheet of wisdom Tabitha delved for words of ambitious length. These nuggets after proper mental assimilation were applied to Peter as a test. If he endured them without wincing and with some degree of comprehension Miss Groot felt secure in broader paths. Peter had served time at the district school in the heyday of early youth and was therefore a fit subject. Being consumed with admiration for Tabitha's qualities, physical as well as mental, he was also a willing one.
Now he stood with a ready finger on the door latch, for Miss Groot could propel dough balls merrily when aroused, and eyed her with an expression of sheepish pacification.
"Come in or go out," cried Tabitha in high wrath, forgetting her scholarship. "He'm I, all het up workin', an' you tryin' to fix consumption on to me. Slet that door one way or t'other."
"It's worth while gettin' you used to have you talk like a human bein'," grinned the culprit, with a horrible absence of tact. "My head aches yet from the dose you gin me last night. Folks will be latin' at you first, you know. Fact is, pa an' ma does now behind your back, an', while I believe in education, havin' had some myself, you're shingin' too many long words for a hired gal, if you are the purest woman in Partridge Corners. Larn all you want, Tabitha, but don't shoot 'em around free. You'll hear from it, an'—"
This speech of mingled common sense and unintentional insult and complacency was cut off by a lump of dough striking him squarely in the mouth. He darted out, sputtering.
Tabitha raged across the room and shot the bolt, her round countenance flaming. Then she bit hard on her rosy under lip and sat down to recover, a precept of learning being an attempt at philosophic calm under trying circumstances.
"Let's see," she ruminated. "Go slow, now, Tab. Think. Pete's edgin' up to —to matrimonial overtures—that's right—correct, I mean. You're assistin' his ma in household duties an' just as good as he is—hired gal—that was mean. The flesh is willin', but the spirit is weakenin'. I swan—that is, I utterly swear—that I won't give such a fool another thought. 'Twill be a mistake. My ideas is more elevated, an' I'll rise with 'em. Oh, ginger, my bread!"
Miss Groot sighed as culinary operations were resumed. "The farm will come to Peter in the ordinary course of events," she reflected sorrowfully. "It's a good one, an' his pa's failin'; but no; an edified mind has higher aspirations than cows an' pigs, an' I'll be at the head of a woman's college if I keep on. I ain't only nineteen an' impressive of bearin', if I do say it. Wonder how I'll look in one of them gowns with a four cornered hat atop of my auburn locks. Imposin' as any of 'em, I guess."
This modest view of the future exalted Tabitha's spirit as she shored her leaves into the oven.
"Fshaw!" she exclaimed, striking an attitude. "Laugh at me, will they? I'll start the laugh t'other way an' do it today. Hitch your wagon to a star, as Emerson says. He oughter have said 'unle' or 'attach,' but the idea ain't discouragin', an' I'll pitch right in an' get attention attractin'. Then Miss Shields can look round for other help. Maybe they'll want me in their office right away."
"Poor Peter!" During the ensuing ten days he was frozen with a succession of refrigerating snubs and acid repulses which cast him into the depths of despondency. Tabitha appeared absorbed in rapt contemplation of affairs beyond the mundane. She was silent, yet expectant, as one waiting for a message of unbounded import. Still he lingered mournfully about the region of Miss Groot's performances, with an eye to lending an assisting hand. It was not desired. Neither was conversation. Peter visibly drooped.
Then came Thursday evening and the Bunfield Gazette. Peter welcomed it and at once repaired to the kitchen and held it out as a peace offering.

Perhaps this beloved messenger would produce a beneficial thaw.
The girl's eyes shone, and her cheeks were like peonies. "Look it over," she remarked in a lofty voice. "If you find anything about me read it aloud."
Peter glanced through the pages and started. "Lordy," he exclaimed. "You have got in the paper!"
"Read it," commanded Miss Groot, sitting up excitedly. "Then laugh if you want to."
The young man commenced:
"A GENEROUS OFFER."
We are greatly indebted to Miss Tabitha Groot of Partridge Corners (a satisfied smile from that lady) for the extremely kind communication herewith printed at her request. Our readers, we are positive, will appreciate it as a contribution to be valued.
"To the Editor of The Gazette:
"Admired Sir—Eighteen months of personal acquaintance with your esteemed publication has endowed me with undoubted qualifications for achievements along educational lines, and I hereby proffer to you the advantages of my services for $10 a week—being now attained to the age of nineteen years, strong, healthy and of commendable appearance—for the furtherance of the interests of your interesting periodical and to enable myself to be elevated to be an inmate of some desirable institution in future where my talents will receive due appreciation.
"Address me in care of Mrs. Timothy Shields, Partridge Corners. I am working for her. Print this, please. With my best respects.
"TABITHA KITTREDGE GROOT."
We deeply deplore our inability to avail ourselves of Miss Groot's courteous proposition and trust our correspondent will pardon us for trifling changes in her letter, made necessary for the enlightenment of our readers. Our sincere advice to this young lady is a decided opinion that she keep right on working for Mrs. Shields of Partridge Corners until time shall bring her a modicum of common sense and some knowledge of English composition, else her "desirable institution" will surely be the poorhouse—
A cry of anguish from Tabitha stopped Peter's labored enunciation. He did not laugh, but sprang from his chair and held the bowed head in his great hands, with his face against her bright hair.
"Never mind, dear," he whispered. "If they don't want you, I do. Look up, Tabitha. Say you will!"
The girl, still sobbing, lifted a tear stained face and nodded. Her lover kissed her in rapturous relief. Then Tabitha spoke, and her speech was emphatic. "I'll never look inside that old paper again," she said.
Whistler Was Particular.
I saw that marvelous set of etchings printed. In fact, the bulk of them were printed in my own printing room, a room which I had especially arranged for the master, and it was in this little printing room of mine that Whistler taught me the art of printing from the copper plate. This was my first insight into Whistler as a great master, and one of his characteristics as a great master was that he would have perfection. No matter how small the detail it must be perfect. To begin with, he always insisted upon having old paper upon which to print his etchings and preferably Dutch because of a certain golden tone, unobtainable with new paper, which this particular kind gave to a proof. Many a time Whistler and I have spent weeks in Holland poking about dirty little shops in search of old paper, and sometimes, after having discovered a fine collection of 3,000 or 4,000 sheets, I have seen Whistler literally tremble with excitement and scarcely know how to ask the price for joy. Then again he was very particular as to the choice of oil for mixing with the ink; also with regard to the temperature of the plate, the pressure of the press, the condition of the blankets, and, in fact, everything had to be absolutely right.—Mortimer Menpes in Studio.
The Top Hat.
Tall hats, "peaking up like the spire of a steeple a quarter of a yard above the crown," as a sixteenth century writer describes them, were known in the time of Elizabeth, and the Puritans affected them until they merged into the old fashioned beaver of our great-grandfathers' days. Top hats of silk appeared first in Florence about 1800, and twenty years later silk hats with felt bodies were introduced into England.
About 1810 the French silk hat was placed on the market and at once adopted in the familiar "chimney pot" shape. There were several varieties of it, such as the Wellington hat, with the yeoman crown; the Anglaise hat, bell shaped at the top, and the D'Orsay hat, with ribbed silk binding and a big bow.
The color also varied. Thus the Earl of Harrington started a craze for green top hats by wearing one in his garden with the idea of not frightening the birds. He also tested his silk hats by standing upon them. The top hat, however, was never so favored by any great personage as to account for its general adoption.—London Answers.
Got His Money's Worth.
A lady pianist was recently prosecuted, and an amusing incident was noted in connection with the case. One of the witnesses called by the police was an individual who did not appear to be overburdened with intelligence. During a smart cross examination defendant's counsel asked him:
"On first going into the room did you pay a shilling fee to the defendant?"
"Yes," was the reply.
"What did she tell you in return for the money?"
"Oh," said the witness, "she tole me lots o' things, some on 'em true, some on 'em half true an' some on 'em lies."
"Now," continued the counsel after the laughter had died away, "this is the point I wish to get at: Was there any attempt at imposition? Did the lady impose upon you at all?"
"Oh, dear, no," was the response. "I knowed it wor all gammon, so there couldn't be no imposition. Besides, it wor a bad chillin' as I giv her, to start wit'—"

A Soul Harrowing Experience of a Poet
THERE was a merry poet once who on an autumn day sat down and chewed his pen awhile and spun an airy lay about the russet leaves that flit where'er the zephyr whines and said, "It will be finished when I've written eighty lines."
"For I am paid for all the work I do with allr grace according to its merit, ne'er, but all the time on space, and when at 25 per line this thing I set adrift I'll have the shining shekels clinched to buy an overcoat."
And so he apothecized the quail and pumpkin pie and touched the south bound goose that goes a-bonking down the sky, likewise the squirrel that explores the tree from bough to root and sent it to the editor instanter on the scout.
Oh, while he sat and waited for the precious little thing to see the light of day he'd drum upon the desk and sing, "I soon shall have an overcoat that like the blanket feels a-hanging from my ringlets to my patent leather heels."
When finally the poem appeared he wore a look of pain and looked quite like the shanghai that's been standing in the rain, because the wicked editor had fractured his repose by setting up his jingling as ordinary prose.
"Ah, me!" the poet murmured in a frenzy of despair, the while he wrung his hands and mauled his long, artistic hair. "Instead of $20 now, as far as I can see, my little lay in prose will bring me only dollars three."
'Twas then he groaned and gnashed his teeth and flew, a frantic thing, a-frothing down the stairs and to the walk upon the wing and wooed the creamy Wurzburger which e'er the poet woos and quite forgot the overcoat and bought a pair of shoes.—New York Times.

Not Hiring Generals.
Since the war some of the privates have told with great relish of the old farmer near Appomattox who decided to give employment after the surrender to any of Lee's veterans who might wish to work a few days for food and small wages. He divided the Confederate employees into squads according to the respective ranks held by them in the army. He was uneducated, but entirely loyal to the southern cause. A neighbor inquired of him as to the different squads:
"Who are those men working there?"
"Them is privates, sir, of Lee's army."
"Well, how do they work?"
"Very fine, sir; first rate workers."
"Who are those in the second group?"
"Them is lieutenants and captains, and they works fairly well, but not as good workers as the privates."
"I see you have a third squad. Who are they?"
"Them is colonels."
"Well, what about the colonels? How do they work?"
"Now, neighbor, you'll never hear me say one word ag'in any man who fit in the southern army, but I ain't a-gwine to hire no generals."—General John B. Gordon's "Reminiscences of the Civil War" in Scribner's.
The Fakir.
He stood on a corner with his wares and talked to quite a fair sized crowd. He had a way of raising his right hand and shaking his forefinger to command silence when about to begin a fresh diatribe. Florida, his face was atmospheric, rotund and healthy. He portrayed a great sense of humor, but he was evidently unconscious of perpetrating a joke when he thickly counseled:
"Don't go elsewhere to be fooled, don't let other people cheat you with their trash. Come to me. I have the goods!"—Philadelphia Ledger.
A Reason For It.
"What's the matter with old Spondulix, anyway?"
"So one knows. The doctor refuses to give his trouble a name."
"Why is that?"
"Oh, I suppose he can charge more for a mysterious ailment than he can for any other kind."—Brooklyn Eagle.

The first prune tree was planted in California in 1870 by a Frenchman, who brought the tree to this country from France. The first orchard, of 16 acres, began to yield in 1875.
Sculpture will be a feature of Oklahoma's exhibit at the St. Louis World's Fair. D. J. Martz, a sculptor of Guthrie, is preparing some specimens of his work for exhibition.
It is estimated that the amount of Texas wheat now on hand and unsold by the farmers does not exceed 6,000,000 bushels. The total yield in the state is placed at 25,000,000 bushels.
That low lying territory of the Mississippi should at times be overflowed is not surprising if one considers that the "Father of Waters" draws supplies from 23 states, draining one-third of the area of the United States.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER, BOTH STARS, IN DIFFERENT PLAYS

MISS ELEANOR ROBSON.

MRS. MADGE CARR COOK.

It isn't often that mother and daughter are rival stars in rival plays, appearing in the same town, but this is the experience of Mrs. Madge Carr Cook and Miss Eleanor Robson, now in Chicago.

Mrs. Cook is starred for the first time this year in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." Her daughter, Miss Robson, also began her stellar career this season in "Merry Mary Ann."

Both plays were by untried playwrights and both have been conceded a generous measure of success. Mrs. Cook will be remembered for her clever character work in Amelia Bingham's company playing "The Chimes," and "A Modern Magdalen." Miss Robson first "arrived" as Bonita in "Arizona." Since she has been leading woman for Kyle Belton and is considered a very able actress.

BABY'S VOICE

Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. How sweet the picture of mother and babe, angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so full of danger and suffering that she looks forward to the hour when she shall feel the exquisite thrill of motherhood with indescribable dread and fear. Every woman should know that the danger, pain and horror of child-birth can be entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, a scientific liniment for external use only, which toughens and renders pliable all the parts, and assists nature in its sublime work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this great crisis in perfect safety and without pain. Sold at $1.00 per bottle by druggists. Our book of priceless value to all women sent free. MOTHER'S FRIEND

"CHARACTER READING."

Mrs. Symes has prepared a handy little book on character reading, in which character is delineated by the features. The ancients set much store by a correct diagnosis of the mental characteristics, the disposition and the measure of intellectuality, from the external indications of the face. For instance the Chinese have this proverb concerning the mouth: "Show me a man's mouth, and I will tell you what he has been and what he is."

Napoleon said if he could have enough men with the right sort of noses he would conquer the world. Noses are divided into five conspicuous types—the Greek or peaceful nose, the Roman or conquering nose, the Jewish or commercial nose, the snub or humorous nose, and the retroussé, which is between the snub and the pug.

The chapter on eyes is interesting and there we learn that Emerson had this opinion of eyes: "The eyes speak all languages. They wait for no introduction. They are no Englishmen, ask no leave of age or rank. They respect neither poverty nor riches, neither learning nor power, nor virtue nor sex, but intrude and come again and so through you in a moment of time. The eyes of men converse as much as their tongues, with the advantage that the ocular dialect needs no dictionary, but is understood all the world over."

The physiognomist divides faces into three so-called grand classes. The oblong face, the round face and the pyriform or pear shaped face. Each of these types has many variations, and the author devotes much of her book to the explanation of these classes.

All in all it is a most interesting little book. The smile of indulgence with which it is taken up and the serious expression with which it is laid down, reminds one quite forcibly of the man, who went to scoff and remained to pray. The last few pages contain an alphabetical guide in delineation of character.

If you want to know yourself or your friend, read Mrs. Symes' book.

WONDERFUL McCHESNEY

A CONSISTENT PERFORMER

THE THOROUGHbred RED McCHESNEY.

One of the greatest race horses that ever faced a starter's flag is McChesney, by Macduff-Mammoth. Few thoroughbreds have received such homage as the Western wonder, and, while at times during the past season he was beaten by inferior animals, he was generally ready to deliver the goods in an honest manner when given an even break.

McChesney is a rich colored chestnut with four white stockings and a blazed face, markings now rare owing to the decrease of the old Stockwell and Blair-Athol blood and the predominance of the Galopin since the 70's. Standing over 16 hands and weighing, in condition, perhaps 1,050 pounds, McChesney is an animal to command attention. He stands over a bunch of ground, is lengthy underneath, is long in the quarter and is powerfully muscled in the shoulders, narrowly escaped coarseness. Loin and quarter muscles are superb; he is large of bone, deep of chest, is intelligent and sound.

As a two-year-old he started 26 times, won nine, was second six and third three times. As a three-year-old he started 21 times, winning 12, second in four and third in one, being unplaced in four. This season he has started 12 times, winning seven, second in three and third in one, being unplaced in one.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Cornell's Twentieth Century Humpty Dumpty" company, which will be seen at the Auditorium tonight, as classed among the very best attractions on the road this season. The company comprises 30 metropolitan entertainers headed by Eddie McDonald, who is, without doubt the best pantomime clown of the day. The special features are new, novel and original, and the costumes are said to be a dream of beauty. The production includes a carload of magnificent scenery, all new this season, and so constructed as to be adapted to any sized stage, thus giving their audiences in each city the benefit of the entertainment in its entirety. It is quite safe to say "Old Mother Goose's" fairy tales and nursery rhymes never found their way upon the theatrical stage in so complete a production as in the one presented by the Cornell's.

Disastrous Wrecks.

Carelessness is responsible for many a railroad wreck and the same causes are making human wrecks of sufferers from Throat and Lung troubles. But since the advent of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, even the worst cases can be cured, and hopeless resignation is no longer necessary. Mrs. Lois Cragg of Dorchester, Mass., is one of many whose life was saved by Dr. King's New Discovery. This great remedy is guaranteed for all Throat and Lung diseases by Frank D. Hall, druggist. Price 50c. and $1.

Noah Andregg, the insurance agent, has removed his place of business to No. 19 1-2 North Third street, first stairway south of Doty house, in same office as Franklin's Insurance agency. On account of sickness my business will be looked after by Franklin's insurance agency. 11-7-mo. NOAH ANDREGG.

THE A. A. Griggs COMPANY

EMPLOYEES

Of the Weiant Bakery Surprised Mr. Chrysler at His Home in Granville Monday.

Granville, O., Nov. 17.—A number of the employees of the Weiant bakery of Newark, came to Granville on the electric car on Monday evening and pleasantly surprised Mr. W. H. Chrysler, who was also recently an employee of the bakery, but who is now acting as salesman in Perry's grocery. The surprise or Mr. Chrysler and his good wife was complete, but they proved equal to the occasion and were delightful entertainers, and a pleasant evening was enjoyed by all. Music and games were indulged in and a elegant oyster supper was partaken of. During the evening Mr. Chrysler was presented with a fine book by the employees of the bakery as a testimonial of their regard.

LARGE CORN CROP.

Coshocton, O., Nov. 17.—The biggest corn crop reported in this county is from the Cassingham-Herbig farm, south of the city. On 200 acres there were raised 16,000 bushels of large-eared corn, an average of $2 bushels to the acre, in spite of a dry season.

BRILLIANT

Wedding of Late President Arthur's Daughter to a New York Lawyer This Noon.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 17.—St. Peter's church was the scene of a brilliant assemblage at noon today when Miss Ellen Nerndon Arthur, daughter of the late President Chester A. Arthur, was united in marriage to Charles Pinkerton of New York. The bride party walked through an aisle of chrysanthemums and the altar was banked with great white snowy blossoms. Mr. Pinkerton is a lawyer. Bishop Potter officiated at the wedding ceremony.

SCHOOL BOARD

PRESENT ENROLLMENT OF CITY PUPILS IS 3347.

Report on Work at New North End School House—Truant Officer's Report Submitted.

The Board of Education met at four o'clock Monday afternoon at the Auditorium building, with members Fulton, Henderson, Haight, Keller and Munce present.

The following bills were allowed: Joseph Renz, insurance, $28.25. American School Board Journal, $9.50.

Ginn & Co., class books, $3.00. Silver, Burdett & Co., music, $1.02. E. R. Evans, repairs, $1. Advocate Printing Co., printing, $12.50.

American-Tribune, printing, $11.25. Woolard & Nutter, repairs, $2.50. Elliott & Wilson, supplies, $28.66.

J. E. Stinger, repairs, $2. Ferd Mohlenpau, supplies, $5.10.

A communication from Wilbur T. Mills, architect of the new school building, was read by the clerk which commented on the progress of the work, and stated that with few exceptions, the contractor was complying with the specifications and the terms of his contract with the Board, and that he had called the contractor's attention to some of the work not satisfactory, which was promised to be made good.

The superintendent reported the present enrollment in all the schools was 3,347.

As clerk of the Board of City Examiners, F. M. Townsend reported that said Board had held its first examination of teachers on last Saturday, at which there were 16 applicants, and that there would be another examination next Saturday.

Truant Officer Jones made his monthly report which showed commendable industry in the discharge of the duties of his office.

The Board instructed the finance committee to see W. N. Fulton, city treasurer, and notify him that under the law as construed by the Board, he is requested to execute a bond as custodian of the school funds, in the sum of $20,000, subject to the approval of the Board. It had been assumed by the Board that the bond executed by W. N. Fulton to the city, as treasurer of the city, also covered the school funds, but Mr. Keller stated to the Board that he had recently investigated the question of requiring a separate bond as custodian of the school funds, and it was his opinion that the bond executed to the City by Treasurer Fulton did not cover the school fund, and he advised that a separate bond be required.

On motion, in the matter of tuition, due from John Stasel and others, residents of Madison township, which the Board of Education of Madison township has refused to pay, the clerk was instructed to notify said parties, that they must furnish the Newark Board a survey of a competent surveyor, showing that said parties resided more than a mile and a half from a school house in their district, and that unless such survey was furnished, they would have to pay the tuition individually.

On motion the Board adjourned.
